THE REMISE CAN DO EVEN MORE.

Are you looking for an exceptional place to host your company event, presentation or private party?

The listed brick building dating back to 1901, which was originally the Erdberg tram depot, offers a historical flair combined with modern-day infrastructure.

Atmospheric lighting and flexible floor plans over an area of 826 m². Visitors can be collected with vintage vehicles. Special tours arranged. You bring the event and we'll provide the special location and a wealth of ideas.

We look forward to your enquiry.

PAST MEETS FUTURE

Take a journey through 150 years of public transport in Vienna and get a glimpse of how our city will develop in the future.
Experience how increased mobility has changed the lives of people.

Remise – Wiener Linien's transport museum

Historical events are brought to life and Vienna's public transport operations made tangible. Exhibit areas guide you through the history of transport, tell stories and invite you to try things out.

The new museum offers a unique combination of history and modern technology. The historical depot serves as an authentic setting for an interactive exhibition on public transport.

Slip into the role of a conductor in former times and master the challenges faced back then.

Experience the basics of electrical engineering in order to understand how vehicles are powered.

Build your own tram and manage the operational planning of the vehicles in the network.

How have trams, buses and the underground shaped life in the city?

- The conductor in the historical tramcar brings back memories for some people and amazes others.
- Multimedia exhibition areas provide many new insights via films, simulators and interactive games.
- Stories that you can touch bring to life important events occurring in our city, such as the role of tram drivers during the February Uprising or the construction of the underground.
- 50 historical vehicles and an underground carriage you can walk in show how mobility has developed.
- Vienna is growing, just like most other cities, and experts around the world are hard at work devising innovative concepts for the future of public transport.
- You can experience all of this in the unique atmosphere of the former Erdberg depot.

Ticket to Ride

"Oh là là, this is what the metro smells like!" Change from the Paris metro to an express train in Tokyo. Discover how public transport works around the world, and even what it smells like.

The bus from the river.

"The Reichsbrücke has collapsed!" The image of the bus from the river makes headlines. The original bus is on display here and you can find out all about the background of this most famous example of its generation.

City in motion

"Wow! That's heavy!" Technical developments brought more mobility. Test how much strength a litter-bearer needed compared to a tram.

We the tramway operators

"Südbahnhof, Kurzstreckengrenze [end of a short tariff zone!]" A tram driver in years gone by had many duties such as setting points and changing signs. Try it for yourself.

An underground for Vienna

"Zug fährt ab! [train is departing]" You have often heard this as a passenger. Now you can drive an underground train yourself in a simulator.
